Hello [REDACTED] parent student info

The walkout is a Humanitarian Walkout in solidarity with Palestine. Students who walkout of class will have their attendance noted accordingly. If parents feel that they want their students to check out early or remain home on Thursday we will excuse those absences.

Good Morning,

I think any walk-out is going to be a disruption to learning. I would argue that this shouldn't be allowed, but if they want to peacefully protest after school, so be it. Will the kids be marked absent from the classes they walk out of? If this is an antisemitism protest, and my kids stay home because I don't want them to be singled out by not walking out, will they be counted absent?

Thanks,

Dear Robinson Community,

I have been made aware that some students are organizing a walkout this week. I have worked with students to provide them guidance to help ensure a safe and peaceful event.

FCPS respects the rights of our students to engage in peaceful protest and express their opinions through speech and other ways as long as it is done respectfully, does not interfere with the rights of others, and does not disrupt learning in the school.

Please note that FCPS does not oppose, nor endorse, any of the calls to action.

While respecting these rights, we must also ensure our school is a safe space for every student. FCPS denounces all acts of antisemitism, islamophobia, and hatred in any form.

Instead, we must hold on to shared values of empathy, compassion, and respect for all people.

Regards,

Tracey
