Hi [REDACTED],

We have a situation that is bigger than what we can support at our middle school and would like to explore if there is a way to both thought-partner and perhaps directly support us in this process. We have a situation with a "hit list" that has harmed our community, including the child that made the list. If you have a few minutes to discuss how we could potentially work together to begin the harm healing at a full school level, including potentially parents and staff as well, I would appreciate it.

I have included [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] on this email as well.

I have some flexibility tomorrow, and can certainly make time when you are available.

Thank you in advance,

Dede
