Hey [REDACTED],

As an American, my primary target is my government, which has enabled Israel's impunity and unfolding genocide with unequivocal military, financial, and diplomatic support.

Perhaps you can be of service to agitate that USG adhere to its own laws including the Leahy Amendment or even to precepts of representative democracy - now being flagrantly disavowed as the 66% of Americans demand a ceasefire, yet only 19 out of 535 members of Congress have endorsed it and instead censured the one Palestinian-American representative in Congress.

Worse, the US is current in violation of the Genocide Convention due to its veto at the UNSC against ceasefire as well as its provision of military and intelligence technology to Israel together with its advancing of anti-Palestinian racism that primes audiences to expect and accept large numbers of Palestinian casualties.

With all this work to be done and so much pain that meets the road here - we can use your help. Teach Americans to stop murdering innocents and to honor representative democracy. If you are at a loss where to start, I am happy to help point you in the right direction.

Just a thought - be a decent human being.

Ms. Erakat—

I saw your interview this morning on BBC and decided to review your background and expertise. I see you grew up in California, have a list of impressive degrees and university posts. You have enjoyed the fruits of Liberty in America. I also see you were the beneficiary of the Abraham L. Freedman fellowship- Freedman being a celebrated Jewish jurist. I guess hypocrisy has no bounds.

Clearly you are passionate about the Palestinian cause. Lots of articles, and TV interviews. What I don't see is a list of the years you have spent in Gaza where the 'pain meets the road', actually doing something concrete for the people. Perhaps if you resigned from Rutgers when this war ends, headed to Gaza to help the people to rebuild a society based on the rule of law that forsakes as alternative murdering innocent neighbors. And teach them also to elect leaders grounded in an ethical system- be it Muslim or Judeo-Christian- that honors the rule of law and individual rights. If you were to do that you would do more for the Palestinians in your lifetime than all of your posturing and angry posts to your fellow academics and TV commentators.

Just a thought- be a modern Sister Teresa—
